

Pilot Project: an experiment in the education of the emotionally disturbed deaf

Robert Lennan, Project Supervisor

This school has obtained a grant from the United States Office of Education to undertake a two year experimental program in the education of deaf children with emotional problems which have prevented their learning in a regular class setting. The children who have been selected for the project are boys seven through twelve years of age with normal intelligence, a hearing loss of 70 db or greater in the better ear, no evidence of serious brain damage, and a history of hyperactivity or other emotional problems which have precluded satisfactory academic achievement in the past. Classroom and dormitory facilities have been constructed in existing buildings on campus. A part of the ward space in the infirmary has been converted for use as a dormitory, while classrooms, a teachers' workroom, and a conference room have been constructed within a small gymnasium.

We have been most fortunate in obtaining the services of several highly qualified consultants to work with the project staff. Dr. Frank Davis, Chairman of the Department of Special Education at the University of California, Riverside, is the consultant in the area of educational research. He is working with us in structuring the program to obtain a maximum amount of research data. Dr. Frank Hewett, Chairman of the Department of Special Education at the University of California at Los Angeles, and formerly principal of the school at Neuropsychiatric Institute there, is consultant in the area of the education of emotionally disturbed children. We are most fortunate in obtaining his services since he devised the methodology which we are using and is best equipped to offer advice in its use in our program. Dr. Frank Wills, a child psychiatrist in Riverside, will be providing psychiatric consultative services, and will be working with Mr. Don Campbell, our school psychologist. Dr. Wills has served in a similar capacity for our regular school program in the past.

The month of September was spent in preparation of teaching materials and inservice training by the project staff. A course of study in language dealing with the areas of self, family, school and community was formulated by the teaching staff to meet the basic communication needs. Mr. Don Perin, Assistant Professor of Education in the Department of Instructional Technology at the University of Southern California, gave a short course in programming to the teaching staff. He also provided instruction in the development and use of various audio visual materials. It is hoped that experimental work in the development and use of programmed instructional materials and audio visual media will be carried out during the years. Thirty-five mm color slides will be used in language development both for teacher presentation and as a self-instructing device for individual students in study carrels.

Dr. Madeline Hunter, Principal of the University Elementary School at the University of California, Los Angeles, conducted a two day workshop on learning theory, motivation and reinforcement for the entire project staff.

Mr. Robert Lennan, the project supervisor, and Mr. Don Campbell, the school psychologist, visited the homes of the children who were considered to be possible candidates for the project. It was felt that better psychological test results could be obtained in the home. This proved to be true. Several of the children had been tested at this school in the past and their performance on the same tests given in familiar home surroundings was better in every case. These visits also provided an opportunity to explain the program to the parents. The majority of children considered for the program had applied for admission to this school in the past, had been evaluated, and were not accepted at that time due to their emotional problems. Only three of the boys in the project have been students here in the past, and they were experiencing emotional problems in our regular classes which prevented them from achieving in a satisfactory manner. Because of their behavioral problems and lack of achievement it is highly doubtful that they would have been retained in the regular program.

At present fourteen boys are enrolled in the Pilot Project. It is hoped that the full complement of sixteen students will be with us in the very near future. The Pilot Project staff consists of four teachers, five dormitory counselors, a secretary and the project supervisor. This makes possible a ratio of four students to one teacher in the classroom, and a similar student-counselor ratio during most of the children's out of school hours. This makes possible a great deal of individual attention to deal with learning and behavioral problems.

The method being used to bring about desired behavior changes in the students is a form of operant conditioning which was originated by Dr. Frank Hewett at the Neuropsychiatric Institute at UCLA. Children in the project are evaluated by the project staff in terms of a Hierarchy of Learning Disabilities which has been devised by Dr. Hewett, and strategies for bringing about behavior changes appropriate for the child are determined on the basis of this evaluation. As the children proceed through the day they are given check marks on a card. These are given at fifteen or thirty minute intervals, depending on the age and attention span of the child. Five checkmarks are given for beginning and completing an assigned task, and five for "being a student" during the time interval. The term "being a student" applies to the particular behavior which will facilitate learning for the individual. Checks are given for appropriate behavior. At the end of each day children turn in their completed cards for a reward. The reward may be candy, a bottle of soda pop, or a balloon depending on what serves to motivate the child. In addition to this the students fill in with a marking pen or crayon a column on a card which shows the total number of checks they have earned during that day. This card is retained in a rack on the classroom wall, and gives the child constant knowledge of his performance level over a long period of time. It also serves as a reporting device for the child's parents.

The rationale for the use of this methodology is: 1) It provides the student with immediates knowledge of his level of performance and reinforces desired behavior. 2) Experimentation has shown that lasting behavior change is elicited better through a system of positive reinforcement than through negative reinforcement. 3) This method provides a framework in which both the teacher and the student can function effectively. It provides a teaching strategy which adheres to commonly accepted theories of motivation and reinforcement. For the child with learning problems it provides a structured learning environment which offers him a sense of security and direction and provides him with constant feedback concerning his level of performance.

Since the basic purpose of this project is to determine appropriate methods for educating deaf children with emotional problems, an extensive program of initial intelligence and achievement testing is being followed. This, coupled with similar tests in the spring, will enable us to determine what progress has been made during the year. Student observers from the University of California at Riverside are making regular observations of pupil behavior through a one-way mirror following a standardized, timed reporting procedure. The dormitory counselors and teachers keep detailed narrative observation reports on each child, and these reports are transcribed weekly by the project secretary. The combination of reports from these various sources will assist us in determining if behavioral changes have taken place.

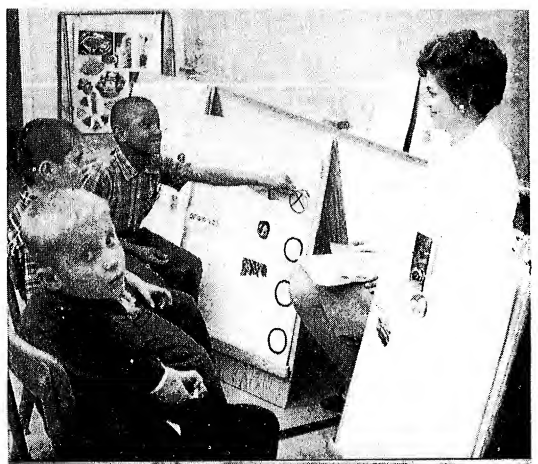

All of the children are being examined by a pediatrician, Dr. H. Dan Baernstein, and a neurologist, Dr. Guy Hunt, from the Medical School at Loma Linda University. In addition to this all of the children have had electroencephalogram tracings made at Pacific State Hospital. The purpose of this extensive medical workup is to determine whether there are physical factors which are causing behavioral problems.

A key part of the project is the program of parent education and counseling which is taking place in the form of meetings and conferences on alternate Sunday afternoons. It is the feeling of the project staff that optimum progress cannot be achieved with the children unless their parents function as partners in working with the project staff to achieve behavioral changes and educational goals for their children. In addition to these bi-weekly meetings, manual communication classes are offered weekly to the families of the students in hopes that this will enable

Now Hear This . . .

Have you noticed how quickly the holiday seasons are brought around to us nowadays? I saw several stores making preparations for Christmas back in October. Somehow the commercial aspect of our lives seems to have overlooked Thanksgiving and in some stores even Hallowe'en. Does the dollar have to rule everything? Perhaps it is the jet age we live in.

Today we are confronted on all sides with technological advances in methods of teaching. We are advised to have in our classrooms overhead projectors, slide projectors, small 88-mm movie projectors, certain types of daylight screens for correct viewing, chalk boards of different colors depending on lighting, the latest in multiple hearing aids, improved types of pupil desks and chairs, and even textbooks, all in the name of better education. I am all for keeping up with the times; in fact I would prefer to be a little ahead. I am, however, concerned with the cost of being so equipped and the effect all of this has on teaching. Consider the future teacher. He will have an automatic classroom under push button control. He will be able to present programmed subject matter in the proper order through the media of visual aids. He will be like a producer who makes movies, being sure that each part of the lesson is presented on cue. He will, in fact, be a technician presenting material prepared by someone else whose basic interest is selling educational media plus the equipment used to show it. There is great value in this type of programmed teaching and we educators are constantly on the lookout for ways of improving our educational system. The one big factor which bothers me though is why the hurry! Industry urges us to use this equipment because it will do a job in much less time, does a better job, is better organized, and also reduces the work of the teacher. It also establishes a consumer for the things it produces, so we are back to the dollar. Perhaps this is the future of education and the answer to educating deaf children. I doubt that it is, but agree that a multimedia approach to education is a big step in the right direction. To me, the teacher is the difference between success and failure in the classroom and this should be kept in mind when considering many of these innovations which industry feels we should purchase.

them to establish meaningful communication with these children and help them to become more efficient in reinforcing the concepts taught here at school.

We are most fortunate in having a dedicated and enthusiastic staff to work in this challenging project and feel confident that they will make a significant contribution to the profession as a result of their efforts.

BOOK FAIR TERMED GREAT SUCCESS

The Book Fair was an exciting and interesting experience for students as well as teachers. Eight hundred, seventy-one paperback books, obtained from the Scholastic Book Services, were arranged on tables and book racks in the junior high and high school library. A window display and posters placed in dorms and arcades were used to advertise the fair.

Students from the high school, the junior high school and the elementary department went to the fair by classes. There was great excitement as the students rushed around buying books. In addition to buying books for personal leisure reading, some students bought books as Christmas gifts for their families. Others lamented that they didn't have enough money to buy even more books.

Approximately 790 out of the original 871 books were sold. At the end of the school year, the remaining books will be given as gifts to students who make the most improvement in reading during the year.

The Book Fair, which was the first one conducted as CSDR, was successful beyond expectations.

Manual Communication Offered in Anaheim

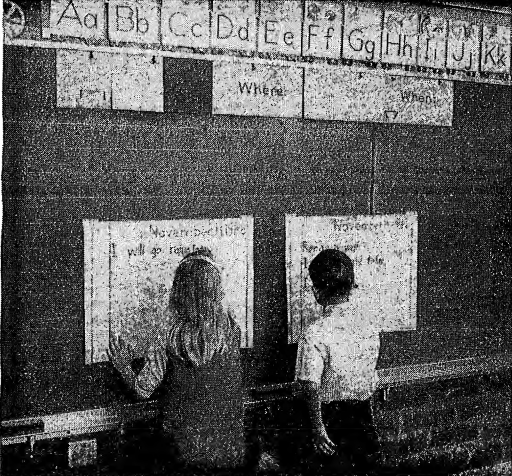

Anaheim Union High School District is planning to offer a class in "Manual Communication" on one of their high school campuses, beginning at the end of January. Mr. Herbert Larson, who is a deaf teacher in the Anaheim Union High School District, will be the instructor in the class. All parents who might be interested in enrolling in this class should communicate with Mr. John Conniff, District Psychometrist of the Anaheim Union High School District, 2200 East Wagner Avenue, Anaheim, California 92803.

It will be necessary to have 20 people enrolled in the class for the High School District to offer the class. We hope that a sufficient number of people will enroll so that the class may be given.

October 26 was Terry Robertson's birthday. He was ten years old. We had a party for Terry at school. Randy Jackson and Delbert Russell helped pass the cake and punch. Then they cleaned up the table. We played games.

Terry had a party at home, too. His grandmother gave him a jack-o-lantern.

The Planets

The names of the nine planets are Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. Mercury is nearest to the sun. Mercury is very hot. Pluto is farthest from the sun. It is cold on Pluto. Mercury is the smallest planet, and Jupiter is the largest planet. Saturn has a ring around it. All the planets revolve around the sun.

Scott Anderson got his cast off two weeks ago. Now he can play.

Nanette Rippel has three new puppies at home.

Tadpoles Grow into Frogs

Tadpoles are hatched from eggs. They live in the water. They grow legs and learn to walk on land. They lose their tails. They grow into frogs. Frogs live and play on land and in the water. Some frogs live in trees.

Pleasant Memories

When my father was in the Air Force my family and I went to Germany to live. At first we lived in a small German house. Then we moved to a new Air Force house. Only Americans lived there. At first we traveled around Germany. Then we traveled throughout Europe. Parts of Europe were beautiful. I saw many, many castles near a big river.

We went to Holland. It was very flat land and was located near the ocean. My father bought wooden shoes for my family and three or four round boxes of cheese. Each piece of cheese was about two feet in diameter. It was delicious.

Then we went to Paris, France. My family and I rode an elevator to the top of the Eiffel Tower. It is 984 feet tall. I was afraid to get near the edge of the tower.

Germany was my favorite country. My school was about twenty miles from my home. There were only five or six deaf children. An Air Force man drove me to and from school for about two years. I'll always remember the exciting experiences I had in Germany.

For a week Rose Mary Ortiz talked about Joyce Hoffman who is a world famous girl surfer. Rose Mary and Joyce are good friends. Rose Mary told us that Joyce would visit our school. On Friday, October 21, Rose Mary dressed neatly because she expected Joyce to arrive at lunch time. Joyce arrived on time and the girls were very excited. They talked with her and took pictures of her. Some of the students got her autograph. She signed her autograph so many times that her fingers were very tired.

After lunch she visited junior high classes with Rose Mary. After 3:45 Rose Mary made a tape recording of Joyce. Rose Mary was so pleased that her friend, Joyce, visited her and the school. Joyce's picture was in an issue of Life magazine recently. She has traveled to many different countries to enter surfing competition. It was an exciting experience meeting her.

A Trip to Lake Tahoe

I went to San Francisco by Greyhound because I planned to attend Camp Karana for the deaf and hard of hearing. My trip began about 12:00 a.m. and ended at 1:30 p.m. the following day when I changed to a bus going to Lake Tahoe. I took two heavy pieces of luggage with me. When I arrived many campers came to meet me. They were from the Berkeley School for the Deaf and some other California schools for the deaf. I was the only student from Riverside. A counselor went with me to my tent. I put my luggage in the tent and went to the office. The manager's name was Mrs. Jossion and she explained about the rules. Later some of the boys talked to me about the Riverside School for the Deaf and asked me many questions.

We swam in the blue Lake Tahoe water. It was almost like Hawaii. It is a beautiful lake. I enjoyed Camp Karana very much and hope to attend again next summer.

Last August my family went to Yosemite in our trailer. We saw fresh water. I asked my sister if the water was salty. She said, "There is no salt in this water." My Trip All Alone

Last July Mom, Dad, and I went to the Los Angeles airport at night. I said goodbye to my parents. I got on a Western jet plane alone. I was not afraid. We started to fly at 1:00 a.m. We went to the San Francisco airport first. Next, we went to the Portland, Oregon, airport. At 4:40 a.m., our airplane landed in Seattle, Washington. I hurried off the plane because I wanted to see my brother, Bob. Bob picked up my bag. I was dizzy and a little bit airsick. Bob took me to his doctor in the morning at 8 o'clock. After-awhile I felt better.

I went on many trips in the state of Washington. I had a wonderful time.

On September 2 I drank some very cold water. At 7:45 p.m., I felt a pain in my stomach and I told mother. At 8:00 p.m. I felt the pain again. So mother and my brother, Mark, went to the store and bought me a bottle of 7-Up. I drank it, but I still felt the pain. In the morning when I woke up, I felt the pain again. So mother took me to the doctor. He felt my stomach. It hurt and he knew something was wrong. He told my mother that I had to go to the hospital to have an appendectomy. I was afraid, nervous, and worried. In the afternoon at 1:30 we went to the new Community Hospital. At 2:30 I went to the operating room. I stayed for one hour. The doctor took out my appendix. I stayed in the hospital for four days. I liked the hospital very much. I feel better now.

An Interesting Experience

We played football against Notre Dame. I was angry and tried to make the Notre Dame boys afraid of me. I stole the ball twice. I ran. I got two touchdowns. A boy was punished for holding. The touchdowns did not count. I was disappointed. We tied Notre Dame twelve to twelve. Next time we will try harder.

Sea World

One day my family and I went to San Diego to Sea World. It is an interesting place. We saw a big aquarium with a dolphin, three mermaids, and several other animals. In one act we saw a killer whale and a few dolphins. We visited the Japanese building which was very beautiful. Some people bought some oysters with pearls inside, but I didn't buy one. Each oyster cost $2.89.

Later we ate lunch. Then we took seats and watched dolphins in the bay. We saw a beautiful Hawaiian girl and a man feeding the dolphins and whales. Later we went to my aunt's house for the night. I had fun at Sea World. Everyone should see it if possible.

The Second Christmas

by Louis Untermeyer

The story tells what might have happened to Joseph, Mary and Jesus the year after Jesus was born. When King Herod heard the rumors that a rival king had been born in Bethlehem, he gave orders that all children two years old and under in Bethlehem should be killed. Joseph had a dream in which a spirit told him he must take Mary and Jesus away from Bethlehem at once.

After a long, hard journey through the desert, they arrive at Ghada, a small village. They hope to spend a day or two and then go on before Herod's agents can find them. They meet Akim, a poor but kindly water carrier, who suspects they are running away. He offers to make room for them in a shed by his house.

Because their donkey seems lame and Mary is near exhaustion, they stay for a week. Akim's family are very good to them and Mary thinks it would be better for the baby if they stay a little longer. They stay a few more days; then weeks; then months.

Mary and Joseph never lose their fear of being discovered. Their lives have been marked by signs and they wait and wait for a sign that will tell them whether they can return or will have to go on farther. Joseph passes the time by doing what he knows best—carpenter work. Mary is very homesick, but waits patiently for the sign.

Almost a year after their arrival in Ghada, a strange caravan arrives in the village. An officer of a king questions some villagers to find out if they have seen Joseph, Mary and their child. He finds out nothing from them and then talks to Akim. Akim tells him that the people he is looking for have gone on into the desert. Akim thinks he has fooled the officer, for the caravan prepares to depart.

The next night there is a small birthday celebration for the child in Akim's house. Suddenly the officer appears with some of his men and announces that he has finally caught up with Joseph, Mary and their child.

Everyone is sure that the officer comes from King Herod and gets ready to protect the child. But their fear changes to amazement when the officer motions to his men to place two boxes in front of the child. The boxes contain fine garments and a crown of gold for Jesus. They are birthday gifts from King Melchior, who was one of the Three Wise Men and whose life had been deeply changed by the night a year ago in Bethlehem. The officer reports that Herod has died and his orders are no longer law. Mary and Joseph know that the sign has come at last. Now they can return home.

Trip to the Library

Last Thursday afternoon Classes D and G with three teachers left school in cars at 1:30 p.m. We arrived at the parking lot downtown and went into the big beautiful library. A woman, Mrs. Thompson, was our guide.

Mrs. Thompson told us about library cards and five cent fines for late books. We followed her to the books about the art of living, home, cooking, and raising a family. She showed us the card catalogue. The cards are listed by title, author, and subject. The library on the first floor has all books except children's books. It has telephone books which we could use to call from Riverside to other states, and foreign states such as Greece and Japan.

Then Mrs. Thompson led us into the children's room on the second floor and it had cases which have different displays every month. We went into the Story Club room. It was a cute room.

Next she led us into the art and music room. It was for books about architecture, art, painters, and it had records which can be taken out or played there. I was interested in them.

Mrs. Thompson led us to the reference section which had encyclopedias and almanacs. We went downstairs and there were all the newspapers and non-fiction books for social science, religion and government.

Finally we went upstairs and there was the Court of Sendai. It is named for our sister city in Japan.

We had a good time on our trip.

Random Notes

One day some girls in Shasta I complained to Miss Davis that someone had found two dollars missing from her room.

Miss Davis called a meeting of all the girls, but she never had a chance to say anything because as soon as all the girls were present, they surprised her with a birthday gift of a silver tray.

Ralph and Russell Gibbins took part in the look-alike twins contest at the Pomona Fair. They came out first in the boys' group, but second in the mixed group. Can everyone at school tell these boys apart?

High School Halloween Party

The Student Body Government had a Halloween party for the high school students in the Social Hall from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. on October 29, 1966.

The theme was "The Haunted House." The social hall ceiling was decorated with a huge web made of strings. There were large cut-outs of insects and ghosts in the room.

Three prizes were given. Kathy Carlsen won as a tree with real leaves all over her; Beverly Greer and Janice Dienst as Siamese twins; and Mary Ann Rose and Linda Parker as two bunches of grapes with worms around them.

We played games between the dances. Prizes were also given to the winner of each game.

Before the last game we had cupcakes, nuts, candy, ice cream and Bubble-Up with lemon sherbet for refreshments.

We had a good-night dance and when we returned to our dormitories, we all felt tired but we had had a grand time.

Western Association for Secondary Schools and Colleges

Our five year High School accreditation will end this year. A group of adults called the Visiting Committee of the Western Association for Secondary Schools and Colleges will visit our high school to decide whether our school is to be accredited again or not. Meanwhile the W.A.S.C. has sent to our school many forms of questions to be answered by the administration, the faculty, the classified staff, and the students.

A student committee was selected to represent the high school students. The four boys and four girls selected were: Scott Kramer, Jeff Lenham, John Smith, Ellen Thielman, Lily Miller, Jarris Newell, Edith Reed, and myself. Mrs. McGarry is our faculty advisor.

We had to answer questions such as, "What are the strong points about this school?" and "What, in your opinion, should the purposes of this high school be?" After answering many questions, we had to evaluate lists of certain questions which all students had answered. We figured the percentage for each answer.

Some time in the future we will meet with the Visiting Committee and orally answer their questions.

We hope we will get another five year High School accreditation.

Our Trip to Lake Mathews

Our class in science is studying about water. We wanted to know where our water comes from and also wanted to see a dam. We planned a trip to Lake Mathews.

One morning our class rode in a station wagon from Riverside to Lake Mathews. We went through many orange groves and then it was almost like the desert going up the hill. We arrived at Lake Mathews and saw that it was a reservoir. We looked at a metal relief map with an engraved picture of a man on it. The man was William Burger Mathews who planned how to carry the water from the Colorado River to the reservoir. That's why Lake Mathews is called by William's last name. We looked at another big map on the board. It said that the dike or earthen dam is one of the world's largest. The conduits that carry the water are 16 feet in diameter. The water is pumped and lifted over the mountains three times from Parker Dam. The conduits carry the water about 670 miles.

We walked down the hill to see the forebay where the water was being divided to be sent to various cities. I could see that the water in the reservoir was low because of evaporation. We wanted to enter the reservoir area but could not because the sign said, "No trespassing." If you don't obey what it says, you will get a fine of $500 or a jail sentence for six months, or both.

We went back to the car and arrived at school about 9:55 a.m. I really enjoyed seeing Lake Mathews and learning something about it.

BOOK REPORTS

Elementary School

I read a library book called Elizabite. The author of Elizabite is H. A. Rey.

Elizabite was the name of a plant. She smiled at the sky. She ate bees, grasshoppers and flies. She was a carnivorous plant.

Doctor White was a scientist. He saw Elizabite. He took her home. Elizabite bit the dog's tail and he whimpered.

Elizabite bit the maid. The maid did not like that.

A man came to look at Elizabite and she bit his beard. Doctor White took her to the kennel outdoors.

One night Elizabite bit a burglar. Doctor White called the police. They took the burglar to jail. They took Elizabite to a zoo. She had four children and was happy.

TITLE: Follow my Leader

AUTHOR: James B. Garfield

Synopsis:

This story tells about Jimmy who became blinded by a firecracker.

Jimmy always wanted to get a dog to lead him on hikes or wherever he wanted to go.

He went to a school for the blind to learn how to take care of the dog and how to teach it to do whatever he wanted. He finally got a dog. He called him Leader.

At the end of the story Jimmy could go hiking or anywhere with Leader.

I love the book very much because it truly made me understand about seeing-eye dogs.

TITLE: The Edge of Tomorrow

AUTHOR: Dr. Thomas Dooley

This book is a true story of a young doctor, Tom Dooley, who helped the sick people in Laos, near North Viet Nam.

Before he went there, he knew nothing about Laos. A man from the government office in Laos came to New York and met Tom Dooley. Tom asked if he could help him in Laos. The official welcomed him, but Tom had to wait for a while to get everything settled. Tom asked four others who were students at Harvard to go along with him.

After about six months, they went to Laos by airplane and then traveled to a small village by jeep. The first thing they did was to build a small hospital.

At first the people were disgusted that the white men had come, but later learned that they really needed them. Tom and his helper had sick calls almost all the time, even during the night. They learned that some of the terrible diseases, like leprosy, were common in that village. Many children had only a 50 per cent chance to live, but Tom and his team saved most of them. They performed many dangerous operations. Many people in the United States heard about him and helped him by sending him things he needed for his work.

Tom Dooley decided to travel up the river to stop at many other villages to help the people and he succeeded. He had some problems with the witch doctors, but got along all right.

Tom Dooley finally got time to go back to the United States. Many people in Laos missed him very much so he returned. He learned that he had cancer, but he still kept on working in Laos. He later was forced to return to the United States where he died. Many people honored him for his work in Laos.

Girl Scout Troop 337

Patrols One and Two visited the fire station on Riverside Drive one Tuesday in November. A fireman showed the girls around the station and explained to them how the firemen use the fire equipment. The girls also enjoyed the walk to and from the fire station.

Girl Scout Troop 175

Since the last news was written our troop has been working on merit badges for the year.

During one meeting we divided into our patrols and scouted for different kinds of birds. We have to find and identify fifteen varieties of birds.

The next meeting we worked on the sports badge. The troop divided into teams and played volley ball. We all had a lot of fun.

Many girls enjoyed our arts and crafts meeting. We decorated bottles with different colored tissue paper dipped in glue. Joan Popovich used some of her oil paints to make her bottle very attractive.

Boy Scout Troop 218

The beach outing for Troop 218 is now history with happy memories. The boys enjoyed every minute and are looking forward to next outing.

Dale Coons, Mike Farnady, John Foronda, Jose Abenchuchan, Ricardo Gastelum, David Gomez, Duane Jackson, and Mike Selby have finished their memory work and are working on their woodworking badge.

Junior N.A.D.

The first Jr. NAD meeting of the year was held in Social Hall at 7:30 P.M. on October 16, 1966.

Secretary Ellen Thielman read the minutes of the previous meeting. They were accepted as read.

Treasurer Gene Fischer gave her report and asked the members to pay their dues anytime before the Christmas vacation.

Our sponsor, Mr. Newman, welcomed us and said that he was pleased to see a large group attending this meeting. He read a letter about the essay contest. The title is "A Health Personality." The members were urged to try to write essays. Mr. Newman gave a talk about the National Association of the Deaf and the Jr. NAD. He told of many problems which the NAD has solved.

The members voted that a check for $33 be sent to help the deaf children in Hong Kong or Pakistan, but they wanted to increase the amount.

CSDR Wins 24th Mythical National Deaf Prep Trackfest

The CSDR Cubs, coached by Ray Parks, won the 24th mythical spikefest of the 1966 season with 103 points, while the Berkeley Eagles placed second with 75½ points. It was the most points scored by a team in the history of the make-believe meet since North Carolina gathered 103 points in the 1951 meet. The Cubs scored with five first places, four seconds, four thirds and two sixths.

Firsts were garnered by Greg Wilson who won the 120 high hurdles at 15.3 and the 180 lows in 20.5 and Ralph Gibbins who ran the mile in 4:28.4, breaking the 4:28.9 record. Mike Mahoney tied with 50.9 in the 440 and Tom Parker won the pole vault 11-11.

Additional points were gathered by Jerry Moore, Tom Parker, Keith Gamache, Mike Barber, Fernando Zaldivar and the relay team. Wilson, Mahoney and Moore placed in more than one event.

Football 1966

CSDR ended one of its most unsuccessful football seasons on a happy note by defeating Twin Pines 40-19. This win after a season of frustrations and disappointments for Coach Lanzi gave an indication of better things to come.

This year's eleven was built almost entirely of new players with only 5 members of last year's varsity team returning this year. Inexperience, costly mistakes and several key injuries cost the Cubs dearly in this season's play.

Only six members of the varsity will graduate this year, so the coach will have a foundation on which to build next year's team. Seniors graduating this year are Danny Cisneros, Ralph Gibbins, Russell Gibbins, Gary Stingley, and Greg Wilson. In spite of the loss of these fine players the coaches feel that when the 1967 season comes around the addition of many players from this year's "B" team will mean a turnout of 25 to 30 experienced players.

We are looking forward to a winning season in 1967.

The scoreboard for this year is as follows:

CSDR	Varsity	Opponent
7	Eagle Mountain	20
34	North J.V.	0
20	Aquinas	30
6	Notre Dame	14
13	Webb	39

The final League standings were:

Big Bear	6	0

Notre Dame	4	2
Boys' Republic	3	3
Aquinas	2	4
CSDR	1	5
Twin Pines	0	6

1966-67 Basketball Season

The Cubs are hoping to do better in basketball this year than they did in football, however the same problems exist that plagued the football team, namely the loss of the players from last year. Among the hopefuls out for the team this year are Ralph and Russell Gibbins, Greg and John Wilson, Gorman Low, Manuel Gonzales, Gary Stingley, Steve Scolaro and Ray Bloodworth. Two hopefuls who may not be able to play because of injuries are David McKee and Lorin King. Coach Parks hopes to develop this group into a winning combination. As usual, the rest of the tough Arrowhead League will be strong and CSDR will be in the role of underdog in most of their games.

Shasta IV

We had a great time at our "Boooo" party on Halloween. We had many ghosts, bats, and goblins in our dormitory, and all the popcorn, apples and cider that we wanted. Many of us had bad dreams that night from being scared so many times, and from eating too much popcorn.

Have some of you heard all the noise around Shasta IV? We are practicing our "cheers" for the games. It's great fun and we know that our players do better when we urge them on with our cheers.

Many of the girls in Shasta IV are scouts, and have made beautiful vases for their rooms. They used colored tissue paper to cover the bottles, and then with black paint they painted patterns which give the effect of stained glass.

Shasta III

Diana Mesa's birthday was an occasion to have Irma Gonzalez spend a week-end with her. They motored to Lake Henshaw in San Diego for dinner. Irma also had a chance to visit some of her relatives while staying with Diana.

Hoover, Ambrose Purifoy, and a day student, John Yakub.

Palomar II

The high school boys enjoyed the Halloween party put on by the Student Body Government. Many of the boys helped with the decorations and found that making a huge spider web was a lot of fun if you didn't get caught in the middle. Fred Gravatt showed us how to make huge spiders to put in the web. His largest one was about a foot long and had legs eighteen inches long. The haunted house was scary and looked very deserted. We expected to see the ghosts that hung from the ceiling come flying down on top of us.

The junior high boys enjoyed the party that the homemaking department put on. Roy Cruz won a prize for his costume.
